You can help us end homelessness in Albuquerque!

Thanks to the generosity of Frances Thaxton Ash and her passion to end homelessness in families, Saranam has provided resources and support since 2004 to hundreds of families to permanently break their cycles of poverty and homelessness. Our generous community partners have continued this legacy through planned gifts to create a strong future for more families who have experienced a lifetime of homelessness and generational poverty.

Saranam is a 501(c)(3) organization with the mission to empower families to end their homelessness and poverty through housing, education and supportive communities. Our vision is to transform the lives of homeless families.

Saranam is a unique two-generational program that guides homeless families to achieve long-term self-sufficiency. We provide safe, stable, and fully furnished transitional housing in an intentional community to give families the capability to concentrate on breaking down the barriers to more secure futures. With these needs met, families have up to two years to focus their efforts on education, vocational development and career goals while acquiring life skills for independent living.

Our Children's Support, Tutoring And Resources (STAR) Center provides afterschool and Saturday activities that meet the specific needs of the children in our program. With our research-driven, two-generational approach of serving families, Saranam aims for greater impact and long-lasting positive outcomes for the families we serve.

We welcome the opportunity to help you achieve your financial and philanthropic goals.

Whatever your stage in life, your financial circumstances and your charitable goals, let us show you how you can make a gift that benefits you and your loved ones as well as families who seek hope and a new future of security and financial stability.

Legacy Giving to Support Saranam

Tithing Unto Death

A number of years ago, our family — husband, wife, son and daughter — had a meeting. My husband suggested the idea of tithing our estate, and when he explained the concept to our children, they immediately embraced it. Here's how we decided to do it.

Upon the death of the second parent, 10% of the total family estate would be tithed to not-for-profit organizations. Each family member was responsible for the distribution of one-quarter of the total, so each of us named the organization to which we wanted to give our part. For my share, of course, I chose Saranam, for my heart is here.

I wanted to tell you about our experience, and perhaps you will consider such a plan for your own family. We have found it a creative and wonderful way to keep on giving.

*With gratitude,
Mary Ellen Coon
